

Gold and Silver Certificates.

The American Register, the new Democratic weekly published in Washington, and which has been recommended to the party by Messrs. BAYARD, LAMAR, GEORGE, FENDLETON, HILL, BROWN, BECK, WILLIAMS, VOORHEES, JONES, CALL, McPHERSON, GARLAND, WALKER, HARRIS, MORGAN, PUGH, VEST, COCKRELL, BUTLER, HAMPTON, RANSOM, FARLEY, DAVIS, CAMDEN, MAXEY, COKE, GLOOME, JONES, SLATER, and JOHN W. JOHNSON, is a strong advocate of the policy of substituting gold and silver certificates for the present currency of this country. It claims that such certificates would constitute the safest, soundest, and best paper money in the world; that it is only proposed to issue gold and silver certificates as fast and to the extent of the withdrawal of the paper money based on credit; so that if the certificates fully supply the place of the credit paper money withdrawn, it could not contract the amount of the currency, but would keep the same amount in circulation.

Our own opinion is that the present monetary system is the best this country has ever had. Indeed, it would be difficult to improve upon it, so long as a state of peace shall last and the credit of the Government shall remain at its present high rating. The only defect in the system is indicated in the last sentence. If United States bonds should, in consequence of war, go down to a low point, or in any considerable degree, the greenbacks outstanding would diminish in value more than the bonds. The national bank notes, however, would not be thus diminished in value; because these have behind them not only United States bonds, but the other assets of the bank, as well as the responsibility imposed upon the stockholders. In a word, these national bank notes would stand about as par even though the bonds were not secured by the deposit of bonds; so that as the bonds only have to supplement the value imparted to them in each case by the bank issuing them, the bank notes might remain at par with gold long after the greenbacks had very much depreciated. But the greenback lunatics have prejudiced many people against the existing currency, and so there are constantly being aired new schemes for providing for a different kind of currency from that now in use.

Among the new schemes that the Register is one of the best. All paper currency should be redeemable in gold and silver. Under the Register's system this would be effectually done. It has at least that one feature which would commend it to favor. It is, at any rate, worth being considered if we are to yield to the clamor of the unreasonable crowd who demand that the interest allowed to national banks on bonds deposited to secure the redemption of outstanding bank-notes shall cease to be paid. When this is done the banks will of course withdraw their bonds from Washington and their currency from circulation. Then, and we imagine not till then, will the Register's scheme be likely to take the form of law.

The Solid South.

The North remains solid for the Republican party, and yet invigilant against the solid South as if it were more sinful to be solid for the Democratic party than for the Republican party. The blindness which prevents our northern brethren from seeing that they are the sinners whilst we are more sinned against than sinning, cannot last much longer—at least we hope it will not. The Philadelphia Telegraph, one of the most liberal of the independent Republican journals of the North, has caught a glimpse of the real state of things in the Union, and has a somewhat correct notion as to what the solidity of the South consists of. That journal says:

"But politically, it is said, the South is still solid, or at least it was so last November. So it was and possibly will so remain for a while longer, for the Readjusters' State victory is no gauge of what Virginia would do in a national contest. At the present time, however, it is a Republican, but last November, in a national contest, he found it necessary to be a Democrat."

And the only reason why he and his followers did not find it necessary to be Democrats in the elections held in Virginia last month, was not that the Republican party has become so strong here, but because they hid themselves behind the word "Readjusters." They were, they said, and they say now, neither Democrats nor Republicans, but Readjusters. Of course the leaders know that, as there can be only two permanent parties in this country, they must soon land in the Republican party. But the masses do not realize this fact; nor will they follow their leaders into the Republican fold. The Telegraph says, again:

"But whether or not a part of its population shall become Republican will depend a great deal upon the Republican party. It is not going to make the South Republican by its methods employed in Virginia. These parties too much of the old carpet-bag methods, and have too many of the elements of coercion in them."

That is a noteworthy declaration, coming from the source it does. It shows that not every northern Republican has gone crazy over the hope that MARSHALL would march Virginia straight into the Republican ranks. The danger will be over, we in Virginia think, as soon as he avows himself to be a Republican. This he will not do so long as he has the State debt for a hobby. We trust that the Democrats will do all they can to take this hobby away from him.

Richmond.

Yesterday we received from Vienna, Austria, a copy of "America," an illustrated paper published in that city in the German language, and were agreeably surprised to find among the illustrations a very good picture of our lovely city on the James—Die Stadt "Richmond" in Virginia. A descriptive article of some length accompanies the view of Richmond, in which are mentioned the Capitol, the custom-house, the Governor's mansion, Sanger Hall, the Medical College, and the Arsenal. The article is from the pen of OTTO MAASS, the editor of America.

As for an office-holding class—the perpetuation of a ward politician in a place because he is there—the life-tenure of the shabby favorites of Presidents—we are again told, and would prefer to endure the ills we have rather than fly to those we know not of.—Chicani Commercial.

That's a pretty strong statement of the case of the opponents of such civil-service reform as proposes to get rid of the evils of republican government by appointing officers for life—that is, making them irremovable except for cause.

Legislature of Virginia, expressed himself as very sure, some days before the election, of being the Speaker, because he "had seen the new moon over his right shoulder, and it was as clear as a bell," and that he was chosen Speaker by acclamation. He protested that he was not in the least superstitious about anything else, "but this one thing had proved true for him the whole of his life!"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

RECOMMENDED.

House bill to ratify and affirm the consolidation of the Richmond and Southwestern Railway Company with the Virginia, Kentucky and North-Gauge Railroad Company, under the name of the Richmond and Louisville Railroad Company, was recommended to the Committee on Roads and Internal Navigation.

House bill to provide compensation to the owners of animals killed or injured by the cars, locomotives, or other carriages of any railroad company in the State (reported from the Committee on Roads and Internal Navigation) was next taken up, and provoked quite a lengthy discussion.

Messrs. NICHOL (the patron of the bill), CROSS, GREEN of Stafford, and GIBSON favored its passage. Messrs. HANGER and SCOTT of Fauquier opposed it.

Mr. HANGER moved that it be referred to the Committee for Courts of Justice.

Mr. MAYO opposed the motion, and Mr. BASS favored it.

The motion to refer was adopted by the following vote: Ayes, 45; noes, 37.

The bill reads as follows:

1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Virginia, That whenever any animal or animals, shall be killed or injured by the cars, or other vehicles, or other carriages, used on any railroad in this State, the owner thereof shall be entitled to an action for the value thereof against the railroad company whose cars, locomotives, or carriages caused such killing or injury, and the mode of proceeding shall be the same as is now prescribed by law for suing corporations.

2. On the hearing of said cause the court or jury trying the same shall find for the plaintiff, and judgment shall be given for the plaintiff for the value of the animal or animals killed or injured, inflicted, or injured, to the extent of the value of the animal or animals killed or injured, or the result of negligence or willful misconduct, or the result of unavoidable accident.

3. Any judgment recovered under this act shall, in addition to the force which judgments now have by law, be a lien on the real estate of the defendant, or any company against which such claim may have been recovered.

4. This act shall not apply to any railroad company which shall erect and maintain fences on the sides of their road of the character and description of what is by law now declared to be a lawful fence, with openings, or gates, or bars therein, and farm-crossings of the road, for the use of the proprietors of lands adjoining such railroad; and shall also construct and maintain cattle-guards at all road-crossings suitable for the purpose of preventing cattle and animals from getting on to the railroad.

5. This act shall take effect on the 1st day of July, in the year 1882.

RESOLUTIONS AND PETITIONS.

Rejected.

By Mr. STARR: That the Auditor of Public Accounts furnish to this House statements showing the value of the lands, lots, and improvements thereon in the several counties and cities of this Commonwealth as the same appeared under the assessment of 1875, the same as it appeared for the year 1879-80, and the same as returned in the assessment made in the year 1880, stating separately the value of the improvements, and of the lands and lots with the improvements.

Adopted.

By Mr. NICHOL: Whereas the sale of intoxicating liquors is prevalent throughout the State under the label of bitters of different character; and whereas by this system the license laws of the State are defeated and a large amount of revenue lost to the Treasury; therefore be it Referred.

By Mr. SAYERS: Petition of Alexander Hoover, of Wytheville, who represents that he is a paralytic without means of support, and asks that he be relieved of the payment of the tax on his business.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR.

A message was received from the Governor transmitting the proceedings of the Board of Public Works in relation to the sale of the claim of the State against the Atlantic, Mississippi and Ohio Railroad Company.

On motion of Mr. TAYLOR of Richmond the House adjourned.

Editors of the Dispatch: The office of Superintendent of Public Instruction is one which by common consent has become more varied and important than any other which the present Legislature has to fill. It seems conceded that Delegate R. R. Farr, of Fairfax, is to be appointed. May I ask—solely for information, and not because it really has anything to do with the action of the electing power as to present constant—whether it is claimed that Mr. Farr has any qualification for the post? I have long resided in the county, and am intimately identified with educational work, and I never heard it hinted that he had. No intelligent citizen of Mr. Farr, who knows whereof he affirms, supposes for a moment that he is not a competent man for this position in this connection is as much a surprise to every one where he is best known as it is to the State at large. FAIRFAX.

A Homeless in Franklin County, Pa.

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa., December 18.—The Commonwealth's attorney has just been notified of a case of extreme poverty south of the county of Franklin, Pa. On November 19th, George W. Hornberger and G. W. Simpson quarreled; Hornberger was knocked down, his head striking a bench, and receiving injuries from which he died several days ago. Simpson is hiding among the mountains.

LOCOMOTIVE BUILDING.—An ordinary eight-wheel passenger engine sold for $18,500 now, against $7,000 three or four years ago, and the fifteen locomotive works in the United States, with a varying output of from eight to fifty engines a month, have turned out 2,700 locomotives in the past year, and will put 3,000 on the rails in the next twelve months. In addition, about 300 to 400 are built annually by the railroad companies.

The thoughtlessness of people is so great in regard to watching against colds, etc., that were it not for the wonderful curative power of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup we should shudder at the fate of such.
